

HOLIDAY MESSAGES 2009
A TIMELY REMINDER WORTH PONDERING
JAMES 4:13-15

The Heart of the Matter

As we get older, time seems to fly by more and more quickly. Before long, we find ourselves asking where all the hours in the day have gone. The Bible helps put this feeling into perspective, reminding us that we have no guarantees about what might come in the days ahead. Tomorrow may hold great joy or intense tragedy. Either way, it's all the more reason to live each day with urgency, not putting off needed changes but pressing on toward living a more Christlike life in each moment God gives us.

Discovering the Way

1. Our Danger: Playing God (James 4:13)

Too often we get caught up in the cycle of life and take God's place. We remove Him from the equation by planning without praying and seeing without believing.

2. Our Limitation: We Do Not Know! (James 4:14-15)

All of us are limited by our lack of understanding and knowledge of the future.

Starting Your Journey

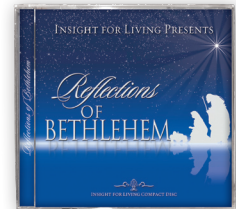

Recognizing our position as a creation of the Father, we must respect His will, remember our destiny, and embrace the life He wants us to have.
