

EASTER MESSAGES 2010
TRIUMPH SHOUTS FROM A TOMB
JOHN 20:6–8

The Heart of the Matter

Did Jesus really die? Could He, in fact, just have been in a coma? Before you can celebrate a resurrection, you must first establish that Jesus really died. Skeptics will argue different theories that deny the miracle, but a look at the facts and the testimonies will prove that Jesus Christ, Son of God, rose from the dead. After hope itself had died, God had the final say.

Discovering the Way

1. Let's Be Certain Jesus Literally Died (Selected Scriptures)

If you could ask the people who stood closest to the cross and the tomb if, in fact, Jesus had died, you would hear in their own words how every sign of life—from His blood to His body to His breath to His spirit—proved that all life and hope were gone.

2. Assurance of a Bodily and Miraculous Resurrection (John 20:6–8)

If you interviewed still more people, you would hear reliable witnesses testify that though Jesus was a dead man, He arose, departed from the tomb, and appeared to dozens of people.

Starting Your Journey

The resurrection of Jesus Christ is more than a historical fact; it is the miracle of God. Though absolutely dead and lifeless, Jesus arose, departed from the tomb, appeared, ascended, and now lives on to give hope to all who receive Him.
